My daughter had a bullying (欺凌) problem a couple of years ago. She kept receiving rude text messages from kids at school. Dealing with school bullying wasn't easy, but I finally ended it. When you realize things are serious, it is no time to be silent.

If your kids are also receiving such text messages, take them directly to the headmaster and show him. Describe to him how it is affecting your kids. Tell him you will not tolerate it and that you want him to put an end to it now.

School bullying is a dangerous and serious issue these days and any good headmaster will take your charges seriously. He will probably address the issues with the parents. If they are crappy (糟糕的) parents, then they may do nothing to their child. You may have to repeat this process several times, but you need to keep a check on those text messages and don't allow your child to delete them.

Now it is time to draw your child close and take care of him/her, because he/she needs it. My daughter did not like me being involved either, but you are the only person your kid can depend on to solve this problem, so do it and mean business. Always be polite, but straightforward. The headmaster and parents must know you mean business.

If repeated meetings with the headmaster do not work, then I would consider hiring a lawyer. That will send the message loud and clear. When you are talking about financial loss, most parents will stand up and take notice and act to keep their kids under control!

I know a lawyer is a big expense and not something you do lightly, but when bad things like school bullying are happening to your children, you must act and act quickly.

32. Which of the following can replace the underlined word "tolerate" in Paragraph 2?

- A. mind
- B. discuss
- C. stand
- D. affect

33. What does the author suggest about school bullying in Paragraph 4?

- B. Not all bullying problems can be solved.
- C. Parents should fully respect kids' thoughts.
- D. It's necessary for parents to be involved in it.

34. What should parents do if the headmaster fails to solve the bullying problem?

- A. Ask a lawyer for help.
- B. Put your child under your care.

C. Meet the bullies in person.

D. Ask the parents of the bullies for money.

35. Why does the author write the text?

A. To seek help.

B. To offer advice.

C. To ask for advice.

D. To share his experience.

Attention, please! Tomorrow we will visit the People's Park. First I'm going to report the weather. A strong north wind is blowing across our city tonight. As a result, the temperature will drop by 5 to 8 degrees. And there will also be showers tomorrow morning. So please take your raincoats or rubbers with you. Some activities will be put off if we are caught in the rain. What's more, don't forget to wear warm clothes or you may catch a cold. We are about together at 7:30 in the morning outside the school gate and set out at 8 o'clock. Three teachers will go with us. Each teacher will lead a team of exactly 20 students. So we will be divided into 3 groups. That's all. Thank you.
